OLYMPIC SHOOTING

In 1995, the National Rifle Association transferred responsibilities to USA Shooting as the National Governing Body for United States participation in Olympic Shooting Sports. The organization implements and manages development programs and sanctions events at the local, state, regional and national levels in order to build and maintain teams for the Olympic shooting sports. Headquartered in Colorado Springs, CO, at the U.S. Olympic Training Center, USA Shooting has a full-time staff dedicated to furthering the sport and supporting athletes and members of the organization.

In order to be considered for selection as a member of the USA Shooting Team, shooters must: Be a citizen of the United States of America; Meet the requirements set forth by IOC, USOC, and ISSF; Compete and score well in a selection competition during the four years leading up to the Olympics. There are Olympic trials conducted in the final 18 months leading up to the Olympics where walk-ons may be eligible to compete. For additional information, including more event listings, log on to:

NATIONAL USPSA SHOOTING CHAMPIONSHIPS

May 17

Classic Nationals

Barry, IL

Similar to NRA's Bianchi Cup, the U.S. Practical Shooting Association (USPSA) evolved from self-defense, law enforcement and military people challenging the traditional standards of technique, training and equipment. Competition evolved from "leather slap" quick draw events of the 1950's to a sport requiring competitors to deal with constantly changing scenarios while shooting rapidly and accurately with full power handguns.

Today, USPSA is the largest action-based practical shooting organization in the world. There are over 400 local clubs within the U.S., and an ever growing number of affiliated ranges around the world. With over 23,000 members, USPSA is growing every year. With exception of classifiers, the stages in USPSA test all facets of a competitor's skill and are only limited to the rules and the stage designer's imagination.

To find a club near you, please visit www.uspsa.org <http://www.uspsa.org>.

WORLD IPSC SHOOTING CHAMPIONSHIPS

The International Practical Shooting Confederation (IPSC) recognizes handgun, rifle, shotgun, and action air shooting disciplines. Competitive IPSC-style shooting began in southern California in the late 1950's and quickly spread throughout the shooting world to Australia, Central and South America, Europe, and Southern Africa. As the sport attracted greater interest, the participants sought a more structured competition environment. As a result, in May of 1976, the International Pistol Conference was held in Columbia, MO, where sportsmen from around the world participated in determining the organization of IPSC marksmanship.

Diversity is encouraged in IPSC shooting to keep the sport from becoming too formalized or standardized. Typically, competitors do not know in advance what to expect in any given match. For additional information, log on to: www.ipsc.org.

Founded in 1996, the International Defensive Pistol Association (IDPA) is based in Berryville, AR. IDPA was created as a shooting sport based on defensive pistol techniques and full-charge service ammunition to solve simulated "real world" self-defense scenarios. Shooters competing in defensive pistol events are required to use practical handguns and holsters that are deemed suitable for self-defense use. Rather than using extensively modified guns, handmade ammunition and speed-draw holsters, IDPA matches emphasize cover, self-defense techniques and practical firearms. For additional information, log on to: www.idpa.com.

Benchrest shooting is a sport in which very precise rifles are shot at paper targets from a supported position on a “bench.” In contrast with other shooting sports, benchrest shooters do not shoot from prone, kneeling or standing positions. They rest their rifle on a rest, thereby placing emphasis on the inherent accuracy of the rifle and ammunition. Benchrest shooters are notoriously detail-oriented and constantly trying to further the accuracy potential of the rifle through experimentation. Much of what we know today about ballistics and precision comes from this discipline. For additional information, log on to:

Sporting Clays is the closest thing to actual field shooting of all the shotgun sports. The sport dates back to England in the early 1900s when trap shooting used live pigeons. With the introduction of clay targets, the sport began to take on the popular form known today. Rather than using standard distances, target angles and target sizes, sporting clay courses are designed to simulate the hunting of ducks, pheasants and even rabbits. Six different sizes of clay targets give the participant the experience of actual hunting conditions. For additional information, log on to www.mynsca.com.
